

Thousands of Jap Reds Riot Against Treaty

By JIM BECKER

TOKYO (AP) — An estimated 150,000 chanting, snake-dancing Communist-led demonstrators launched a do-or-die effort today to block Japan's new alliance with the United States.

The demonstrations mounted early in intensity in Tokyo's Nishi-Shinjuku Park, in front of the Parliament building, and around the U. S. Embassy.

An estimated 8,000 paraded in front of the Parliament building, chanting for Premier Nobusuke Kishi to quit and dissolve the Parliament before ratification of the new security alliance automatically becomes final at a moment of midnight.

Police counted 150,000 demonstrators in the area of the park and the Parliament at 3 p.m., Tokyo Time.

The mood then appeared to be that of an American college football rally.

This was in contrast to the fanatic Communist-led "Kamakaze" charge into the Parliament grounds Wednesday that led to clashes with police, left one dead, a thousand hurt, and prompted the withdrawal of a Japanese invitation to President Eisenhower to visit Tokyo.

One group demanded entrance to the U.S. Embassy to present statements opposing the security pact, but was turned away.

Socialist members of the Parliament—who violently oppose the pact with the United States and want a neutralist Japan—flashed about the edges of the rally, cautioning against new attempts to storm into the Parliament grounds.

American servicemen and their families were restricted to their bases. The American military transportation system was sharply curtailed, and U.S. vehicles avoided the demonstration areas.

The Red-linked Sohyo labor union and students in the Zengakuren group promised to deliver 200,000 demonstrators in a last-ditch drive.

The demonstrations, now a month old, have already won for their supporters the cancellation of the Eisenhower visit, which was scheduled to begin Sunday, the day the treaty passes automatically.

Premier Kishi's Liberal-Democratic party, which holds a big majority in both houses, tried to convene the upper house Saturday, but Socialist members sat members sat down in front of a committee room to block a session.

Sees Cuba Next Cold War Spot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas told the Senate today the next tension spot for the cold war may be Cuba in events stemming from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit there.

Johnson said "we can only speculate as to the events which may take place right on our doorstep" but that this country must now "do some very serious thinking as to how we will react to even closer collaboration between the Soviets and the Cuban government."

Premier Khrushchev will receive a warm welcome in Cuba. That will be guaranteed by the army, the police and all the organs of government," he said.

"We do not know what else he may receive in Cuba."

Khrushchev announced early this month that he had accepted an invitation to visit Cuba and that the time would be decided later.

No date for the visit has yet been announced. There have been reports in diplomatic circles here that the Soviets were shopping around for invitations for their Premier to visit some other Latin-American countries on the same trip.

Johnson said "it is clear that we face a period of heightened cold war tensions."

Bennett in Challenge to Opponents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Attorney Gen. Bruce Bennett today called on the other candidates to declare publicly their political intentions for 1962.

This apparently was inspired by widespread speculation that Gov. Orval E. Faubus will oppose Sen. J. William Fulbright two years hence if he wins a fourth term as governor.

Bennett said: "In December, I stated I would not run for the Senate in 1960 (against Sen. John L. McClellan) nor in 1962 against Fulbright."

"It seems to me that it is time for the other four candidates for governor to publicly state whether they desire to serve the people as governor or would try to use the office as a springboard for a Senate race."

Bennett issued the statement from his Little Rock office.

Joe C. Hardin, another candidate for governor, said at a luncheon today he believed he could effect savings in government "because I have no desire to run for another office, nor build a political machine."

Hardin praised Faubus for making himself attractive to industry and added "no politician can come here and say that there is an industry I gave you."

After a breakfast speech at Dumas, Hardin went to McGhee for a civic club luncheon.

He will be guest of an open house at Monticello tonight.

Policeman From Kansas Is Killed

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark. (AP)

— A Kansas City policeman was shot to death in a fishing resort cabin on Bull Shoals Lake near here yesterday.

Police picked up a Kansas City woman at Harrison, 50 miles southwest of here, a short time after the shooting. Officers said the woman, who gave her name as Mrs. Naomi Sheen, admitted the shooting. She was held here for investigation but no charges have been filed against her.

Sheen was Frank Holtman, 47, a patrolman assigned to duty in the Kansas City jail. He was shot four times with a .22 caliber weapon. The gun is missing.

An employee of the resort, John Earl said Holtman and Mrs. Sheen arrived at the lake Wednesday. He said Holtman was a frequent visitor here.

Holtman was found dying on the floor of his cabin by 13-year-old Elaine Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merion Ellis, owners of the Lakewood Court. Young Ellis said he heard the shots and investigated when he saw a woman leave the cabin and drive away.

"Do you need help?" he asked. "Can I call a doctor?"

"No," Holtman replied to both questions.

Ellis jotted down the license number of the car which the woman drove away from the cabin. Harrison police spotted the car and picked up Mrs. Sheen.

All are three-year fellowships for graduate work and study at various universities over the country. Six of the group will do their work at the University of Arkansas.

Foreign Aid Bill Shallow Win for Ike

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House-passed $1,584,500,000 foreign aid appropriations bill which represents a shallow victory for President Eisenhower was at the mercy today of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

A high-ranking member of that group, Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), was waiting for it with a loaded gun.

The bill cleared the House late Friday by a 250-124 roll call vote after the President's plea for more money was heeded only in part.

Its total still was 590 1/2 million dollars less than the President wanted but was 200 million more than the House Appropriations committee had recommended for use during the fiscal year starting July 1.

By a vote of 212-173, the House restored half the 400 million dollars its Appropriations Committee had cut from direct military assistance allotments. But it refused to put back any of the $124,000,000 cut from defense support funds.

Military assistance funds provide military equipment, training supplies and services to friendly nations. Defense support funds are used for economic aid required, in addition to military help, to secure a specific contribution to defense. The aid goes to countries straining their economies by big military programs.

The President had complained that the committee cuts would seriously impair this country's program of bolstering friendly nations against the encroachments of communism.

Eisenhower originally sought two billion dollars for military assistance. The House committee cut this to $1,600,000,000 and the House itself hiked the allotment to $1,800,000,000 with the aid of 15 Democrats and 17 Republicans and over the opposition of 130 Democrats and 34 Republicans.

The House turned down 191-141 the President's plea for more money for defense support programs, earmarking 600 million dollars for this phase of the aid program instead of the 724 million the President sought. There was no roll call vote, but most Republicans supported the move to provide more money.

Besides cutting 590 1/2 million from the President's over-all requests, the House lopped an estimated 52 1/2 million from the bill on a technicality raised by Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa). Gross objected to giving the program use of that amount of money left over from earlier appropriations but not obligated.

Ellender lost no time in complaining about the total. He conceded that he faced an uphill fight to cut it further and to stall attempts to increase it.

"What happened in Japan, Turkey and South Korea is proof that this program has been mishandled," he told reporters. "I'm going to try to cut it all the traffic will bear. But this crisis has cooled off some of those whose held I expected."

Killed was Thurman Jackson, 42, lumber company operator, who was felled by two bullets minutes after he demanded the board itemize some of the bills it had presented.

School Board President Ivan H. Long suffered a cut over his eye when he was struck several times in the face. Board member J. P. Parker said he blacked out after being struck in the face and hit over the head. Bill Melton was shot in the arm. George Bash suffered several knife wounds.

Dr. Charles Rahm, school board secretary and a former Brownsboro mayor, was charged with murder in Jackson's death. Henderson County Dist. Atty. Jack Hardee said Dr. Rahm was being held in an undisclosed jail.

Four Texas Rangers and more than a half dozen highway patrol cars poured into Brownsboro as a safeguard against further violence and to assist in the all-night investigation conducted at the courthouse in nearby Athens. Continued on Page Two —Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir cut short a fund-raising tour today to fly to New York to defend her country in U. N. debate on the Adolf Eichmann case.

Defends Country in UN Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)

She spoke Thursday night in Milwaukee for Israeli bond sales. She canceled similar engagements in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Baltimore, Boston and Montreal.

Mrs. Meir is expected to address the U. N. Security Council next Wednesday when it takes up Argentina's complaint that the secret transfer of Eichmann from Buenos Aires violated Argentine sovereignty.

Israel had made clear she is going ahead with plans to try the former Nazi official on charges of much of the responsibility for the extermination of millions of Jews during World War II.

Old Landmark at S. Elm, Front Street, Hotel Barlow, Is Revived by Local Man

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Forethought created the establishment of the Barlow Hotel located on the corners of South Elm and West Front Streets. Forethought again prompted the purchase, remodeling, and reopening to the public this famous establishment scheduled for the 18th of June, with the new owner being Mr. Ben J. Owen, local businessman and owner of a chain of department stores in Arkansas, Texas, and Oklahoma.

With the building of the railroads in the late 1800's Hope became a concentration point for the cotton industry and the city and county experienced a rapid growth. These were the main factors which influenced M. H. Barlow to purchase the former Lamar Hotel changing its name to the Barlow Hotel.

M. H. Barlow established a national reputation in the operation of the Barlow. After his death John D. Barlow continued to operate the Barlow maintaining its reputation for fine food, comfortable accommodations, and excellent service, until he sold the hotel to the Lampkin Estate in the early 1940's. John Barlow was famous as an outstanding hotel owner and operator being a past president of the Arkansas Hotel Men's Association and on the Board of the American Hotel Men's Association.

When you dined at the Barlow as most of Southwest Arkansas prominent families were accustomed to doing it was at tables covered by white linens with fresh flowers on the centerpiece and big white napkins, and beautiful silverware. The waiters were dressed in white uniforms and trained to fill the customers every wish with extra service. It was a pleasure to dine at the Barlow enjoying its specialty of delicious vegetable soup. But men had to wear coats and ties and extra coats and ties were always made available by the management.

"Traveling men made this hotel their headquarters and planted their money so as to spend the night at the Barlow Hotel and enjoy one of those famous and delicious five course breakfasts with plenty of hot biscuits and butter, whipped cream on cereals, hot cakes, bacon and eggs, coffee, and home-made jams of all kinds." Much of this food was produced either on the Barlow farm or purchased from local farmers.

The first bathtub in Hope was installed in the Barlow which added to the pleasure of its customers many of whom were governors, senators, congressmen, and famous persons like Silver-tongued William Jennings Bryan and other celebrities.

Mr. Ben Owen, the hotel's new owner, announced the Barlow's name will be changed to the Barlow Hotel Courts. The six rooms on the ground floor on the west side will be the courts and additional rooms adjacent are planned for the future.

Other changes will be the old dining room into a modern coffee shop. The lobby is being completely redecorated and refurnished. The kitchen will be modernized with many new installations and fixtures.

Green will be the principal color in all 5 rooms of the hotel, and it will be complemented with tan, gold, and bone white. Black and white will be used for the outside color scheme, and the familiar cotton ball will remain above the front door. A dining room and banquet room will accommodate 250 people, and air conditioning will be found throughout the hotel.

Sixteen black and white signs have been erected on the four major highways coming into Hope to tell people about the famous Barlow Hotel and where it is located. The Grand Opening is scheduled for early June, and traveling men are already making reservations for accommodations.

Some 20 people will be employed by the reopened establishment. Hostesses in the dining room and the coffee shop will be Mrs. L. L. Avants and Mrs. L. L. Willis. One duty as day clerks at the hotel will be Miss Hazel Owen and Mrs. Ben Owen, while J. W. Leonard will be the night clerk. Adis Clark will be general maintenance man.

Earlier it was mentioned that foresight was responsible for the reopening of the Barlow. This is true because the proposed Millwood Dam will mean an influx of people in this area. And those people, like those who are already residents, will need, want, and use the excellent accommodations to be found at the Barlow Hotel Courts.

School Feud Ends With a Man Killed

smoldering feud that has long split this east Texas town flared into a free-for-all fight Thursday night at a school board meeting. One man was shot to death, four were injured, and the school board secretary was charged with murder.

School Board President Ivan H. Long suffered a cut over his eye when he was struck several times in the face. Board member J. P. Parker said he blacked out after being struck in the face and hit over the head. Bill Melton was shot in the arm. George Bash suffered several knife wounds.

Patient-Plane Survives Storm

MEMPHIS (AP)—A plane carrying a state official under care for a heart attack landed safely at Memphis airport last night after circling the field for 15 minutes in a vicious thunderstorm.

W. W. "Dick" Elhorn, Tennessee director of personnel, was rushed to a Memphis hospital shortly after the plane set down amid high winds, lightning and hail.

Late last night he was reported resting comfortably.

Elhorn, 47, was stricken with a heart attack this afternoon while in Knoxville.

President Slams Tyrannical Red China Regime

TAIPEI (AP)—President Eisenhower today denounced the Chinese as a "tyrannical Communist regime" bent on brutal repression of hundreds of millions of mainland Chinese.

The pledged before massed thousands of free Chinese hailing his visit to Potosi that the United States would stand behind Nationalist China in resisting any Red Chinese aggression.

"You may be assured," he said in a speech, "that our continuing search for peaceful solutions to outstanding international problems does not reflect the slightest lessening of our determination to stand with you, and with all our free neighbors of the Pacific, against aggression."

As he spoke the Chinese Communist guns that "plastered" the Nationalist offshore island of Quemoy Friday were silent.

The death-dealing record barage against Quemoy killed seven persons and wounded 41 others.

Peiping had said it would shell the island to show its contempt for Eisenhower. But the guns were silent today because this is an even-numbered day—and the Reds have confined their shelling to odd-numbered days.

In his speech the President expressed his determination to press on in searching for what he called an "effective means to outlaw war and to promote the rule of law among nations."

Such a noble quest, he said, is not aided by yielding to threats or by weakening defenses against potential aggressors.

"Indeed, such weakness would increase the danger of war," he said.

Eisenhower's denunciation of the Peiping regime was his second in seven hours after arriving on the Nationalist island stronghold for an overnight goodwill visit.

Two hours after landing, he delayed the savage Red Chinese bombardment of Quemoy 100 miles away, as a "deliberate aggressive act by the Communists."

The visit will repay a previous announced visit to Cuba by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The date of the exchange will be fixed later.

Tass said Castro's acceptance was disclosed at a news conference by Antonio Nunez Jimenez, leader of a Cuban government economic mission now in Moscow.

Tass said Nunez Jimenez spoke with satisfaction about the play of the Cuban economic mission here and added his opinion that the Soviet government was making a big contribution to the cause of peace.

An American correspondent asked whether it was possible Khrushchev might visit Cuba July 25. The Cuban replied: "We should be very happy to see Khrushchev at the July 25 celebrations. So far, however, we can say nothing definite about that."

Preacher Escapes in Plane Crash

TILLAR, Ark. (AP)—The Rev. Harold Brunston, 34, of Jacksonville, Tex., escaped unhurt yesterday when he made a forced landing after his light plane ran out of fuel.

Rev. Brunston was enroute from Tyler, Tex. to Laurel, Miss., to officiate at the wedding of a relative when the mishap occurred. It was his first cross-country flight.

A wing tip was damaged and the right front tire of his Cessna 172 blew out when he landed in a soybean field.

The minister hitched a ride to Tillar in southeast Arkansas and later went on to Laurel.

card dealer, David Winestine, an employee of the resort who answered her screams for help.

Beldon Kattelman, owner of the resort, estimated the damage at five million dollars.

Kattelman also said approximately a half million dollars in cash was in the casino cage and huge vault where the treasury of the plush resort was housed.

The casino-restraint-cocktail lounge building, which was destroyed by flames, was the hull of El Ranchito, which spreads over 20 acres.

All that was left today of the central building after more than two hours of burning was a charred shell. The building was constructed of wood in a "frontier spirit" motif.

The fire spread throughout the structure within 20 minutes after it was noticed. Smoke blotted out not only the bright lights of the Strip but also the first light of dawn.

The 50-foot tall windmill which stood atop the roof of the resort and was its trade mark crashed through the roof.

Chorus girls employed at the hotel who lived in apartments on the grounds were awakened by the fire engine sirens and ran frantically toward the blazing casino and show room in an effort to rescue gowns and personal effects.

Rita Blanka, 24, who went to work here just three weeks ago, burst into tears, exclaimed, "All my wardrobe! All my wardrobe!" and fainted.

Red Skelton, who is starring at the Sands Hotel, heard about the fire and rushed to the scene to take photographs.

Betty Grable and her husband, orchestra leader Harry James, were in the lounge of the hotel in an impromptu comedy routine with Dave Burton, one of the stars of the hotel, when the blaze erupted.

Miss Grable, paid $17,500 a week as the El Ranchito Vegas star, spotted the flames, let out a gasp and ran out with her husband through the side door of the casino.

Henderson County seat.

More than 50 witnesses to the fight were questioned. Hardee said Bill Barton had been charged and that he expected to file charges against others.

"I have a lot of witnesses—40 or 50 — to talk to," Hardee said shortly before dawn.

More than 250 persons were present for the board's regular monthly meeting and about 30 took part in the fight.

Tension has been high since the board of the consolidated school district which covers the east part of Henderson County last April fired Homer Bass, superintendent for 23 years. The district had long been split into pro-Bass and anti-Bass factions.

In the April elections anti-Bass forces ousted all but one pro-Bass board member.

It was not clear immediately what caused the fight Thursday night.

IN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER

ER (AP) — The mighty U.S. 7th Fleet kept an unflagging vigil today, ready to meet any Chinese Communist show of force as President Eisenhower steamed north toward the Nationalist Chinese island fortress of Formosa.

Vice Adm. Charles D. Griffin, commander of the fleet, told newsmen the Chinese Reds "might well do something" in an attempt to further mar the President's Asia tour, already blighted by cancellation of his visit to Japan.

Eisenhower relaxed aboard the heavy cruiser St. Paul, flagship of the fleet, after his tremendous reception in the Philippines. He looked weary and grim as he boarded the cruiser in Manila Bay late Thursday night. It was no secret that he was unhappy because of Communist-inspired mob violence.

But he could look forward to an extremely warm hearted reception from the Chinese Nationalists and similar outpourings of friendships in South Korea.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower will arrive in Korea on Sunday—three days earlier than originally planned. He will spend more than 24 hours there instead of the eight hours previously scheduled.

From Korea, the President's big jet will take him to Hawaii for several days and then on to Washington. Hagerty said the plane would refuel en route to Hawaii, but not in Japan. Presumably it will put down at Okinawa or Wake Island.

Weather permitting, a helicopter will whisk Eisenhower from the deck of the St. Paul to Taipei's Pine Hill Airport Saturday to start his 24-hour Formosa visit. If rain continues on Formosa, the St. Paul will land the President at the port of Keelung, and he will be driven the 15 miles into Taipei.

The President spent the morning with his staff reviewing his travel plans. Hagerty said he was calm and unruffled despite the international furor resulting from cancellation of his Japanese trip.

Asked how Eisenhower felt about the turn of events, Hagerty replied: "He expressed his attitude yesterday. He squarely placed the blame for the postponement of the Japanese trip on those elements controlled by the Communists, under external (meaning Moscow and Peking) direction and control."

Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II was reported to have sent the President "quite a few" cables telling of his latest talks with Japanese government leaders.

Virtually the entire 7th Fleet—125 warships and 500 planes—was on patrol to guard Eisenhower as he sailed through the South China Sea toward Formosa. At one point on the 780-mile voyage, his route lay within 125 miles of Red China's coastline.

Britishers End Walk Across U. S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Two doughy British sergeants strode into New York today after hoofing it across the United States in 67 days—10 less than a transcontinental mark set in 1910.

The sergeants, Patrick Moloney, 34, and Mervyn Evans, 33, emerged from the Lincoln Tunnel into Manhattan at 9:58 a. m., maintaining their cross-country stride of 4 1/2 miles an hour.

They entered the 8,216-foot long tunnel—which connects New Jersey with Manhattan under the Hudson River—shortly after their final night's lodging at Newark.

"We're in good condition but it's a rough trip," they said before turning in Thursday night at a motel by Newark Airport.

Earlier they had their first haircut since leaving Wyoming, presented by Larry Pecorardo, a Scotch Plains barber.

"We like our hair long," said Evans. "It keeps the sun off our necks."

The sergeants left San Francisco April 12. Another transcontinental trekker, Dr. Barbara Moore, a British vegetarian who is the wife of sculptor Henry Moore, started the same day as the sergeants but has fallen behind. She is in Indiana. She was hospitalized briefly after being struck by a car earlier this week-end but is off her way again.

The sergeants, sponsored by a British shoe firm, are on leave from the Royal Air Force paratroopers. They plan to return to duty.

"I don't think I'll do any walking," said Evans.

Sixteen-Year-Old Girl Loves a Married Man

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen Worden Erskine:

I am in love with a married man. He is 25, I am 16. He tells me he loves and needs me. When we make love we go all the way. My parents trust me. I can't ask them for help. It would break their hearts. I can't face other people for I'm afraid they can tell what I have done. I can't eat or sleep for worry. I am afraid I am pregnant by this man. I do love him so. Should I go away forever and start over again?

—Worried

Dear Worried: You cannot run away from trouble. You must meet it and solve it. First, no matter how much you think you love him, put this married man out of your life. Then turn to your parents for help and guidance. If you cannot bring yourself to do that at once, talk to the pastor of your church, your family doctor, or some older woman in whom you have trust. You can meet your problem if you have faith and courage.

Dear Helen Worden Erskine:

I have a daughter, 20. She wanted to be a nurse so I sent her to nursing school. She was there seven months and came home. Instead of helping me, I am crippled—she went to a neighborhood hospital as a nurse's aid, then begged to go to another nursing school. My son finished the money both times.

She was there seven months and quit again without telling the nuns. This time she went to one of my married daughters who has a tavern. She is fending her there. She met a man 15 years older than her and wants to marry him. He has a prison record. She was a good girl. I don't know what happened. In our state, Pennsylvania, I still have control over her till she is 21. —A Very Worried Mother

Dear Very Worried Mother: However you may yearn to protect your daughter, you should not attempt to live vicariously for her. No parent should choose its child's friends. At 20, your daughter should have the same responsibilities and privileges as her elders. In some states she would. Certainly your choice of husband for her would not be a man 15 years older than she, with a prison record. But there is nothing you can do about it, other than point out that the shadow of this prison record will fall on her children as well as herself. All you have the right to insist upon is that she be true to her best self. If she isn't, then somewhere along the line you have failed as a parent, even with the best of intentions.

Dear Helen Worden Erskine:

I've read your columns many times and often read about your sending leaflets to your readers. I collect booklets as a hobby and would like to know how many leaflets you have written, how can I obtain them, and how much are they? Thank you. —A.D.G.

Dear A.D.G.: Send a stamped self-addressed envelope for a complete list of leaflets and subject matter.

Dear Helen Worden Erskine:

I have a neighbor who leaves her four children alone while she works. She doesn't work; her husband has a good job. He isn't their father. The children are left to get ready for school and are alone till late in the evening. They are often sick. I feel so sorry for them.

They are a lot of trouble to all the neighbors. I am the only one who even speaks to the mother any more. The oldest child is 13. There are things which happen to her which never should happen to a 13-year-old girl. I caught the oldest boy, trying to set fire to some plastic in his bedroom. I like the mother but don't like to see the children neglected. What can I do and still be a good neighbor? Please help! —Worried Neighbor

Dear Worried Neighbor: Instead of criticizing your irresponsible neighbor and her children, try praising them. In their heart of hearts all children want to be good. They crave love and approval. They may act like little demons but, if you treat them with love and understanding, they'll respond. Unless the children do actual damage to your property, it isn't within your province to take action. Even then, the police should be done through a public agency. I like that line from Shakespeare, "Let us beare affection . . . unto such as neighbor at any time neare unto us."

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address her in care of this newspaper.

Search Started for Small Plane

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A search was started today for a light plane believed to have been forced down in southwest Arkansas after the Federal Aviation Agency here got a trouble report from the pilot.

FAA officials said the pilot identified himself on the radio only as "Brunson," a student flier on his first cross-country flight from Tyler, Tex., to Monroe, La. The pilot said at 9:34 a. m. that he had fuel for only about five or six minutes and would have to land. He reported that he was near a building with the name "Adcock" on it, and that he also spotted a sawmill.

It was believed his position might have been in the McGehee-Dumas-Tillar area.

Brunson said he was flying a silver and red Cessna. The license number on the plane was N-3630-E.

Jim Johnson Booms Faubus for President

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—The South could name the next president if a political party headed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus threw the election into the House of Representatives, Arkansas Supreme Court Justice Jim Johnson says.

Speaking last night at a rally of the Ark-La-Tex Faubus for President Club, Johnson contended a grass-roots movement beginning with 11 Southern states could get enough electoral votes to split the Republican and Democratic Parties.

This would force the election into the House, he said, "and once again the South will be able to name the President and elect him."

At Little Rock, Faubus could not be reached for comment.

Johnson said the Southern states could muster 128 of the 277 electoral votes needed to elect a president.

He added that if Southern representatives break with the Democratic Party at the coming national convention and a movement throughout the country follows, Faubus could be elected.

"He said the party Faubus would conceivably head would be dedicated to states' rights, racial integrity and constitutional government."

"It won't be a third party," he explained. "It will be a second party—a conservative party."

Johnson emphasized his plan is "not a 100-yard dash. It's a marathon."

"It's not going to be easy," he added. "But we could make the first step in 1960 and rock these moss-back politicians so they won't know whether they are coming or going."

Faubus has often shied away from any presidential boom on his behalf, either as head of a third party or in his own Democratic Party.

New President

SEOUL (AP)—Acting President Huh-Chung today became interim premier under South Korea's new system of government.

The duties of the presidency, now a ceremonial post under a constitutional amendment adopted Wednesday, passed to National Assembly Chairman Kwak Sang-Hoon. He submitted his resignation from the assembly to keep Huh as chief of state also, but the assembly deferred action on the resignation.

Huh will serve as interim government head until elections for a new assembly before July 30.

MISSIONARIES NEEDED

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The threat of war in most minds today is perhaps associated chiefly with the atomic age, and with the great powers, separated by an Iron Curtain, capable of destroying humanity.

But there is another conflict, not designated as "war" but nonetheless real.

It is the conflict of ideals and ideas, of political and economic organization, of the Communist and the "free" worlds. This conflict is at heart basically religious. It represents moral and spiritual beliefs and emphases against atheistic and materialistic powers and propaganda.

In the conflict for the minds of men for the moral and spiritual convictions of Christendom, it is my opinion that there is prevalent a strong feeling that the free world is not at all living up to its privileges, its duties, and its possibilities.

It is this that gives significance to a book by a Christian layman, who in recent years has probably visited more countries, interviewed more people, and examined social and economic conditions more closely than any other single individual.

He is Dr. Raymond W. Miller, and his book is "Can Capitalism Compete? A Campaign for American Free Enterprise."

His appointment by the Ford Foundation "to find out how we can do a better job of describing the benefits of American capitalism in the face of the pressure of world communism" has been only a part of his wide travels and contacts.

A keen observer, he has been a successful farmer, a lawyer and publicist, a lecturer at Harvard University, and he has wide relationships in the U.S. and Canada, as well as abroad.

In Dr. Miller's book, the facts and observations are impressive as supporting his opinions, but I doubt if there is anywhere a better source of factual information.

Basically his plea is for a new and present-day sort of missionary activity, a more definite purpose of American business—tion from the assembly to keep Huh as chief of state also, but the assembly deferred action on the resignation.

Huh will serve as interim government head until elections for a new assembly before July 30.

everywhere he includes Canada as having the same structure and conditions—to explain itself and promote its principles in the area of the world where Communism is carrying on so much effective propaganda.

In his definition of the American system as "dynamic capitalism" with a strong emphasis upon service, it is possible that Dr. Miller overidealizes American capitalism, but he cites much evidence of the transformation from the capitalism of exploitation of an earlier era to the publicly controlled, public spirited capitalism of today.

His argument and evidences are impressive, especially as he cites on the part of many young executives the spirit and purpose of missionary-minded business activity for which he contends.

A notable factor is that at a time when Christian missions are supposed to have failed, Dr. Miller cites their strong permanent influence, and he believes that any adherence to the West in the East today is largely the result of missionary activity.

In general, Dr. Miller is constructive rather than adversely critical, but the volume does contain some vital criticism.

Disaster Hits Ike in Past Few Months

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Until this spring, President Eisenhower's last months in office looked like a series of triumphs in a world eager to thank him for helping make it calm. This was the grand illusion.

The world was not calm. The President's last months in office were a personal and national disaster. He will leave office perhaps the most humiliated president who ever lived and one of the most baffled.

For reasons not yet clear but which need explaining, Eisenhower and his administration stumbled into repeated humiliations because of failure to understand the mood and reactions of friend and foe.

When Japanese Premier, Nobusuke Kishi (today called off Eisenhower's trip to Tokyo), under the violence and possible protests of his people, it was only the latest of the disasters.

A few months ago this was the prospect.

A summit conference with Premier Nikita Khrushchev and then a triumphal tour of Russia followed immediately by wild celebration in the Philippines, Formosa, Korea and Japan.

This is what happened.

In Korea and Turkey—two pivotal nations in American military alliances in the East and West—the presidents of those countries were overthrown because they had degenerated into dictators.

There is no evidence the Eisenhower administration in any way had been prepared for these events or had in any way sought through pressure on the dictators to avoid what happened.

When the American U-2 spy plane was brought down over Russia, the administration, in which Eisenhower at the time seemed to take no leading or even very active part, began a series of almost incredible stumblings.

First, it stalled then it allied itself, it confessed to the spying. This was all done so clumsily that the United States embarrassed before the world.

The Eisenhower administration had had four years of horrible spying on Russia to prepare for such an accident as the capture of one of the planes.

When the time came it was totally unprepared.

Worse, the bad handling drove Khrushchev into violent reaction. The Russian wrecked the summit conference, humiliated Eisenhower before the world, continued to belittle him later and called off his trip to Russia.

At this point, Eisenhower or his advisers, could have called off Asian trip because already thousands of left-wing Japanese ranging from Communists to radical and neutralist students and laborers were in violent opposition to the new American-Japanese defense agreement.

Nevertheless, the decision to visit Japan remained unchanged. Once Eisenhower set out upon his journey, it was too late or so it seemed, for him to call it off.

Now he has had to back down without even the free choice of doing so. The bloody riding of Wednesday forced the Kishi government to tell Eisenhower to stay away.

Once again, the United States had lost face around the world.

Chapter XXX

Buckner lumbered shells out of the belt and began reloading. And then somewhere close by another gun opened from the thicket, the blaze of it turning the two Hatchet hands back. Buckner, astonished, peered in the direction of his ally. He could not see the man, Duke had been disarmed, and McQueen would be engaged in no such foolish heroics. He heard the crash of brush as his unseen friend came working toward him. Gully Jordan's whistle reached him. "Don't go plugging me for a 'Hatchet hand'!"

Gully came crawling beside him. The old man punched fresh cartridges into his gun and then peered out into the clearing. "Seems they've lost their stomach for charging," he said.

Argument, hindered by distance, rose from the meadow. Someone—the voice sounded like Abe Lofstrum—said, "There's two for sure, likely three. They're under cover, but we're naked if we move."

Buckner whispered to Gully. "I figured you'd show hours ago, but at the cave, not here."

"You figured wrong," Gully whispered back. "Everybody else—Hatchet, you, McQueen, that girl—everybody wanted to get to Duke. I just wanted to put myself where I could protect Duke if it got too hot for him. I been here since mid-morning. I saw McQueen go up the gulch and later Duke and that girl, and then I saw the girl come back. Rigby and his men showed soon after that. Then you and Duke and McQueen came. That's when the lid blew off. I loaded again yesterday. Seemed the time had come to empty it."

"Hey, McQueen!" Spence Rigby suddenly called from out there in the meadow. Rigby was standing up, his fists raised to the sky, an easy shot for either man in the thicket. Gully growled deep in his throat and raised his gun, but Buckner laid a hand on his arm.

"McQueen!" Rigby called again. "You've got your man, and I can't badge these yellow pups to risk a run at you. You win this round. But I'll be following you to town as soon as my full crew is here. I'll take Jordan from you if I have to tear down the courthouse brick by brick to get at the jail section!" The rest of it was a wild rant, hysterical, incoherent.

"Crazy!" Gully breathed, awed. "Crazy as a loon!"

"No," Buckner said. "Crazy as a fox, I think," for, listening to Rigby, his mind had gone back to that fragmentary thought he'd had about Rigby just before he and Duke and McQueen had reached the meadow; and from that, his thinking had shifted to last night and Tull and Rigby talking out yonder. And a question had risen in him now, nagging and insistent.

"I've got my horse hid back a piece," Gully said. "I'll meet you on the plateau, ready."

"Keep your head down," Buckner said. He eased away, moving carefully, silently, to where he'd tie his own horse. He could still hear Rigby shouting wildly as he worked along. He mounted and got through the rocky slot that led to the road, meeting no one on the way. He walked his horse down hill until Gully caught up.

Buckner pulled up where the road forked with ruts leading east toward Signal, ruts heading north to where Hatchet lay, and Boxed J. He sat his saddle feeling down in the aftermath of that excitement in the gulch hitting him. His wounded shoulder hurt from having hauled himself through the brush. He hadn't been aware of his shoulder while the fuss was on, but now it was a dull, persistent ache.

Gully drew up beside him. "Would it be Hatchet where you're heading?" Gully asked.

"Right," he said. "But I risked it alone, Gully. You'd better go to town."

Gully looked thoughtful in the starshine. "You made peace with Duke, or you wouldn't have been hangin' behind to keep the wolves off his back." He hesitated. "You wouldn't be sayin' which one of you it was should have done that jail stretch?"

Buckner shook his head to face. He got out his gun and said sharply. "Hold it!"

Pru's voice reached him, crying. "Ry? Is that you, Ry?"

"He came out of his saddle and it was Duke should have gone to prison. I'd figger you had comized your voice. Oh, Ry!"

He thrust the gun away and stepped down from his horse, and Pru fell into his arms.

Can't Backtrack Moderator Says

DANVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (U. S.) says he can not conceive of the church's backing out of the racial issue in the South, "even when it conflicts with the political domain."

However, Dr. Marion A. Hoggs of Little Rock, Ark., told the Kentucky Presbyterian U. S. Synod yesterday:

"At the same time we must bear our position on the race problem with understanding and good will, remembering that men's minds will not be compelled."

Saturn Booster Passes Tests

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Saturn's superbooster has passed its first series of tests with flying colors, says Dr. Werner von Braun, Saturn project director.

The last in the series of nine static, or tied-down, tests was held Wednesday at the Marshall space flight center.

The next series is scheduled to begin in August and will be continued up to the time of the actual launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla., in 1961, von Braun said.

Saturn, the booster now being tested, will not be flown. This honor will go to Saturn-I, now being assembled at the space center. A third booster also is being assembled.

The booster is the first stage of the planned multistage Saturn space vehicle — this nation's brightest hope to put heavy payloads into space.

"The money never mattered, Gully."

"Still, the thing's got to be squared."

"It has been, Gully." He lifted his reins. "So long now."

"At last he crested a rise and looked upon Hatchet."

The ranch lay below him, a cluster of shadowed buildings. He put his horse down the slant and rode across level ground; and out of the prairie night a rider suddenly loomed.

This rider had come from that cluster of buildings and been lost in shadow before. The rider had been an enemy; and there was no concealing himself now, not with the two of them nearly face to face. He got out his gun and said sharply. "Hold it!"

Pru's voice reached him, crying. "Ry? Is that you, Ry?"

Ike Blames Jap Trouble on Red China

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER (AP)—It was learned today that President Eisenhower believes the Chinese Communists, with the aim of making anti-American propaganda, are responsible for blocking his visit to Tokyo.

The President, sailing aboard the cruiser St. Paul for Formosa, is known to hold these views:

The Chinese Communists acted in much the same way that Soviet Russia seized on the incident of the U-2 spy plane to wreck the summit conference.

It is evident that all is not well between the Soviet Union and Red China.

The President believes Russian and Chinese Communist leaders are most unhappy about the warm mass receptions he received in many countries during his far-ranging travels in the last 10 months.

On the basis of information from well informed sources, the President is convinced that Nikita S. Khrushchev decided he did not want President Eisenhower to visit Moscow. In this view, Khrushchev yanked back his invitation to Eisenhower and said he was doing so because of the incident involving the spy plane down near Sverdlovsk.

The President concluded that one of the reasons underlying Khrushchev's actions at the summit conference in Paris a month ago was that the Soviet Premier did not want Eisenhower to visit Moscow.

where attendance records are kept.

Lake Texoma is the man-made result of Denison Dam, one of the many reservoirs and navigable waterways constructed by the Army Engineers. Usually the Corps' projects are planned primarily for flood control, navigation, water supply and power generation, but some outstanding recreational waters are also a result.

Who goes to Texoma? Boatmen from communities around its 580 miles of shore line, who keep craft of all sizes from small skiffs up to $100,000 cabin cruisers there. Trailer-boat families drive in from Dallas, Tulsa, Fort Worth and Oklahoma City. Launching ramps also show license plates from throughout the country.

Landlocked no more, a cowboy may be found swapping chaps for water skis and riding on waters that were part of Indian Territory 50 years ago.

Fishing, camping, racing and cruising are among activities that swell the attendance total into the millions who have found this 15-year-old lake can be a mid-America sea coast.

Texoma is no inland exception. Last year 31 other waterways topped the million-visitor mark.

Second place goes to the 26 pools of the Mississippi River Channel Project in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and Missouri.

Lake Sidney Lanier in Georgia and Fort Gibson Reservoir in Oklahoma each reached 4,000,000. Other reservoirs in Tennessee, California, Texas and Georgia had 3,000,000 fresh-water enthusiasts stop by. Ohio, Arkansas, North Carolina, Virginia, South Dakota, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida attracted millions.

Until coastal attendance can be counted that tops these busy waterways, the inland boatmen will rank first as America's most ardent skippers.

Davidsonville became the first Arkansas post office in 1917.

David Dale Owen began the first Arkansas geological survey in 1837.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

MORTY MECKLE

THE STORY OF MARTHA WAYNE

Your Church

not a playground for Saints
but a hospital for Sinners

Attend

My "Pop"

... a grand guy in any language. A very special fellow at our house. Without him around night brings fright. But for him we couldn't eat as well, nor as much. He may be gruff at times; he may be firm when he disciplines. And we may answer "yessir" in agreement when he commands, but he is the very foundation of everything at our house.

It takes him to silence the doggie ... to persuade Jr. ... to laud sister's successes and to heap high praise on all the things mother does ... that's "My Pop". They possess rare qualities, these fathers. A good one is a source of joy to every child.

Then on this Father's Day, let him have it right in the heart. Aim all the good things at him. Give him the treatment he so justly deserves and make him wish for another Father's Day very soon. Play with him but also pray with him. Be a worshiper with him at your church this week.

You In The Church
The Church in You
— form a combination
for good. Every man, woman and child needs
the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us
support her program
of service to humanity,
by a faithful worship,
a daily bible reading and attend services regularly.
